RAIN GARDEN WORKSHOP at EDMONDS PCC MARKET

(Edmonds – WA) On June 13th from 10 – 11:30 am the Snohomish Conservation District, Washington State University Extension, and City of Edmonds will host a FREE WORKSHOP where community members can learn about rain gardens. The workshop will be held at the Edmonds PCC Market at 9803 Edmonds Way.

A rain garden is a beautiful landscape feature that allows you to control drainage safely while also providing protection to our local creeks, lakes and Puget Sound from polluted runoff.

At the workshop you will learn how rain gardens can add more backyard habitat, attract beneficial pollinators, and could be a solution to a drainage problem. Come learn how to make this home project a reality through the City's stormwater program, support from experts, and more.

We'll meet inside the classroom for coffee and refreshments, but please come prepared to be outside to tour the on-site rain gardens.

RSVP and more information are available at <https://edmondsrain.eventbrite.com>.
